

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC ON ZION

Saint's Herald, Vol. 67 #7; 1920

The task of the church is a Herculean task, and only the consecrated hearts and willing hands can achieve it. In the midst of the clamoring for short hours and long pay; for many luxuries and little production; for maximum returns and minimum output, in the midst of such a world we must rally our forces, and build Zion.

We must build Zion, and Zion means a community where every man puts to with all his might, and where the common ideal is service and not gain. We must organize a people that can demonstrate the principles of Christ so visibly that their light may be as a light set upon a hill and the solution of the social and economic problems that beset the entire world may be sought by men everywhere as the remedy of untoward conditions. Zion must translate all our high ideals into practical reality.

And Zion must be built by human hands and human skills. God can inspire, God can protect, but the task itself is ours. Wherever you are, your heart is set on Zion and you will have a part in her building.

Will you join hands with your brethren in this mighty task? Will you produce and will you save that there may be wherewith in the Lord's storehouse to accomplish his work?
